

Evolution of the American Heart Association Healthcare Training Network

The American Heart Association's Quality Network is a force for change.

These champions for continuous improvement in resuscitation education advocate and drive a "Culture of Resuscitation Excellence" — anchored in the adoption of comprehensive and measurable quality solutions.

Leveraging their expertise beyond CPR instruction, the Network influences healthcare best practices and guides organizations and providers to elevate their quality improvement journey.

As our agents of change and most valued pathway, the Quality Network advances our shared mission of improving patient outcomes and saving more lives.
